In osborne case the reason why another indictment was sought, and why Mr. Oborne was not allowed to plead to the second and more serious charge.

The report of the change of front follows reports from White Plains that the grand jury, at its last session, was in anything but accord with the District Attorney and William J. Fallon, his assistant. Whether this be true, it is a fact that on that day discussion in the grand jury cannot be doors closed. Even then the discussions could be heard in the public office of the prosecutor.

Mr. Fallon, representing Mr. Weeks, continued vesterday his fight to prevent Osborne getting the grand jury minutes. Though Justice Tompkins ball declared that he would order them turned over "in the interests of justice," Mr. Fallon renewed his objections, or celaring that the court had not given him an opportunity to submy the stengaraphic report of the court session in which he offered to make the records public.

erian Church, maintained silence yesterian Church, maintained silence yesterday in the face of further charges of alleged frandulent business activities. Mrs. Ella L. Moore, a widow living in Albany, filed a petition in the Federal Court in Brooklyn to have the American Candy Manufacturing Company, of which the clergyman was vicepresident, declared bankrupt. In her papers she declared that Dr. Parkhurst and other officers urged investors to buy bonds of Franklin's, Inc., a candymaking concern taken over by the American company, when they knew the company was insolvent.

Mrs. Moore's petition said she was urged to invest $2.200 in "six per centum one-year gold coupon secured notes," of which Dr. Parkhurst recently admitted he held $80,000 worth, and that when she found she could collect no interest she brought a judgment suit, which was returned unsatisfied. Dr. Parkhurst, she said, was a party to a "fraudulent conspiracy."

Harry H. Schutte, counsel for James Gray, trustee in bankruptcy for the American Candy Company, was indire mant at Mrs. Moore's action. He inter-preted certain clauses in her petition as an attack upon himself and Mr. Gray, which, he said yesterday, indicated he knew the whereabouts of the books of American Candy Manufacturing
